Join us for this year’s MLK Day Symposium!
Our program will showcase Kinesiology’s embrace of the fierce urgency of now and its impact on various communities through research, teaching, and service. A faculty panel will discuss the role of sport and physical activity as catalysts for addressing health disparities and inequities, and promoting social innovation and economic development. An audience Q&A and reception will immediately follow the program.

Faculty Panelists:
Dr. Kathy Babiak, Associate Professor of Sport Management
Dr. Natalie Colabianchi, Associate Professor of Health and Fitness
Dr. Rebecca Hasson, Assistant Professor of Movement Science & Health and Fitness
Dr. Stefan Szymanski, Professor of Sport Management
