7. Setting up MCommunity groups for courses

Keeping your students informed requires establishing and maintaining consistent means of communication. Instructors can easily create MCommunity groups for their U-M courses, where the memberships are automatically synced with the course roster (including students and instructors). The MCommunity group can be used to send email to the registered students, and since they are also synced with corresponding Google groups, they provide a convenient way to share materials in Google Drive.

8. Template language for communicating with students about shift to online courses:

Students –

As you are aware, the university has canceled classes for Thursday, March 12, and Friday, March 13, and will shift to online courses beginning Monday, March 16. We will not be meeting in person through April 21, the last day of classes this semester.

I'm going to be working hard to shift as much of the class to an online mode as possible. This may require some adjustment in the assignments and projects.

I expect that some adjustments will need to be made to our existing projects and exams. I will try to communicate those as soon as decisions are made.

I'm afraid that the situation is going to result in more emails from me. I will include CLASS NAME in the title line & ask that you do the same.

Thank you for your patience and flexibility.
